Established more than 19 years ago, the Digital Printer Awards are the industry's premier accolade and the most revered showcase for digital print, finishing, and related technologies in commercial applications.

Categories cover everything from direct mail and door drops, to books, embellishment, and even business initiatives and industry achievements.

And if being nominated for or winning a Digital Printer award wasn't prestigious enough, the gala lunch event in central London is an excellent opportunity to mingle with your peers, network, and make new connections.

There are 15 categories to enter, as well as a Supreme award.

WHY ENTER?

CUSTOMER CONFIDENCE

Being shortlisted or winning reassures existing and prospective customers that they are working with a high-performing, quality-focused supplier.

SHOWCASE INNOVATION

The Digital Printer Awards celebrates technical achievement, sustainability advancements, and creative problem-solving.

Entering allows you to highlight breakthroughs in:

TEAM RECOGNITION AND MOTIVATION

Submitting an entry acknowledges the hard work of your production, prepress, and technical teams. Recognition boosts morale, encourages innovation, and supports employee retention.

“Winning the wide and super-wide format award is a real endorsement of our people and process. The judges' recognition of scale, colour-matching, and the challenge of installing difficult materials underscores the investment we've made in equipment. We're proud and grateful for this honour.”

SUPREME AWARD

One category winner will be crowned overall Supreme Winner. The very best of the best. The judges will choose the entry they believe exemplifies the pinnacle of digital print performance.

CATEGORIES

Adding value

Printed products that clearly show the benefit of digital print to enhance profitability and/or effectiveness. Please provide evidence of how digital production increased effectiveness, highlighting the benefits to your customer and their clients. These can include financial performance, raised awareness, better response, or other elements that clearly demonstrate added value.

B2 digital print

This category aims to demonstrate and recognise the growing adoption and value of the B2 format in digital print, across both toner (dry and Electrolnk) and inkjet printing technologies in any print applications. The judges will look for the benefits that accrue specifically to the format, in terms of application flexibility, overall productivity, reduced production cost, and/or job turnaround time, including finishing, embellishment, or any other post-press process.

Books

Any digitally printed book is eligible. Monochrome or colour, printed on-demand, of any run length, personalised or not. The judges will be looking at the production quality including repro print and binding. Additionally, they will be considering challenges and advantages for the producer or the customer by using digital print.

Creative use of substrates

Examples of jobs where the physical attributes of the material are fundamental to their appeal and success. This includes printing onto challenging substrates and sympathetic design, print, and finishing to highlight the tangible and tactile qualities of the materials used.

Designed for digital print and finishing

This award will be given to the job that best exemplifies the capabilities and strengths of digital print and finishing. This may include extended gamut printing, use of additional colours, fluorescent or clear inks or toners, personalisation/variable data capability (at least three samples will be required to confirm this), printing on unusual substrates, digital embellishment (each item potentially different), or other special effects techniques.

Digitally printed labels and packaging

Labels and packaging that use digital printing to deliver additional benefit to the customer. That may include making high-quality products available for micro and small businesses, in addition to providing agile supply chains and reduced inventory and waste.

NEW FOR 2026 Direct mail and door drops

This new category celebrates outstanding creativity, strategy, and execution in digitally printed mail campaigns that land directly in the hands of customers. This award recognises work that cuts through the noise – combining compelling design, intelligent data use, personalisation, and flawless print production to drive measurable engagement and results. Whether highly targeted direct mail or large-scale door drop campaigns, entries should demonstrate how digital print elevates impact, strengthens brand connection, and delivers real ROI.

Finishing and embellishment

The use of post-press processes to add durability, visual appeal/perceived value, and differentiation to finished products. Judges will be looking for evidence that the finishing processes provided clear benefits. These may be through the format, feel, and appearance of the job, or reduced time, cost, and material usage.

Future star

This award is for any employee under the age of 30, who is playing a key role in the future of the digital printing value chain; nominees are welcomed from all areas of the supply chain. Entries for this category must include a supporting statement outlining why this individual should be considered for the award, their progress, and their achievements to date.

Inkjet in direct mail

This category will recognise the growing quality and cost-effectiveness of inkjet print in direct mail and related variable data-based applications, where 'white paper' inkjet printing has replaced other digital or hybrid printing processes such as overprinting on offset-printed shells. Submissions must have been entirely printed by cut-sheet or web-fed inkjet, on any substrate. In addition to an assessment of quality in the context of the client brief, budget, and media choice, the judges will be looking for evidence of increased cost-effectiveness, reach/response, or new business developed as a consequence of adopting inkjet print.

Innovation

Any digitally printed job, regardless of process or format, that offers something beyond the current normal practice, whether it is the printing or finishing processes employed, the substrate used, the product format, use of data, or the business model. The judges will be looking at innovations in production, service, and delivery. Please provide a clear description of the challenges faced, innovative approaches taken to meet them, and evidence of the benefits.

Marketing collateral

Marketing materials produced digitally, including personalised campaigns. The judges will be looking at the print and finish quality, the materials used, and the choice of format to provide impact and effectiveness. Details of how digital production improved the offering along with supporting data will be considered. Entries can be commercial work or self-promotional print.

Sustainability

We are looking for print companies that can demonstrate a commitment to continuous improvement in sustainability through their policies and working practices. This may range from choice of substrates, inks, and print technologies to waste management, recycling, renewable energy use or generation, transport, and carbon offsetting initiatives, as well as employee and customer engagement and recognition programmes. Please provide a 500-word description of the initiative, and supporting documents such as policies, environmental certifications, or awards may be submitted, along with a sample of any job that you feel particularly demonstrates these values.

Wide and super-wide format

This category encompasses the full gamut of wide-format production, from posters, banners and soft signage, through displays, exhibition and event graphics, to retail, and vehicle and building wraps, on any substrate. Samples that are too big to be submitted by post can be illustrated by photography and supporting written submissions. Please provide details of the challenges faced and your response including design, production, and installation factors.

Women of impact

In a traditionally male-dominated industry like print, women's voices and visibility are often overlooked. This award recognises the exceptional achievements of women who stood up, stood out, and made significant contributions to their business, or the industry. Whether that's through driving business success and resilience, demonstrating leadership, innovation or excellence in their roles, or breaking down barriers to create future opportunities for women in the sector. Tell us why your female colleague should receive this award in 500 words or less, and let's celebrate the impact of women in print.

Judges and judging criteria

Judging will be by a panel headed by a chairperson. Judges are independent industry professionals picked for their relevant sector expertise and knowledge.

Production quality is fundamental and the printer's skills in prepress, printing, and finishing are key criteria. However, a number of the categories require evaluation of the role and success of a print project or service within the broader business or environmental context so the supporting written submission will be critical, especially in those categories that do not stipulate that a print sample must be supplied. Please read the above category criteria carefully; the judging panel will not be able to request further information or clarification.
